Introduction to GitHub

Im still new to coding and the introduction to github was very new to me. It is a website that has a community of developers and newbies alike, we were tasked to put our activities in trello there.
Im still having trouble getting around github because the site is new to me and the names and things are out of my vocabulary. The week before and during midterms is very busy for me and other people so I didn't have the time to look arount github but I will try to be comfortable in github and get to know the things on it.
